

Creating Online Tutorials Preconference

Mon., April 20th, 2009

Sponsored by OLA-University & College Division

In this exciting pre-conference, experienced users will show the basics of creating multimedia tutorials with these tools and share some 'tricks of the trade', before stepping back and providing support while you try them yourself.

Speakers: Sarah Clark, Access Services and Distance Learning Librarian at Rogers State University. Amanda Lemon, Reference and Instructional Services Librarian at the Max Chambers Library at the University of Central Oklahoma. David Oberhelman, instruction and reference librarian at Oklahoma State University. Emily Brown, Outreach Librarian for the Muskogee campus of Northeastern State University.

Location: Rose State College's Learning Resources Center, in the computer lab. The LRC Computer Lab is located on the 2nd floor at the North end of the Learning Resources Center/Library, 6420 SE 15th St. Midwest City, OK 73110-2704. Take the Hudiburg Dr. exit off I-40.

Lunch: 'Dine-around' lunch with a choice of several of Midwest City's best lunch spots, where you can network with other librarians interested in using technology in their information literacy programs!

Registration: Visit: (<http://www.oklibs.org/>) and follow the pre-registration link. Registration is limited to 25 participants, so sign up today!

Agenda

- 9:00 - Welcome/How to select topics and outline your tutorial
- 9:15 - PowerPoint narration (free, no download: PPT)
- 9:45 - Demonstration of Jing
- 10:15 - Demonstration of Camtasia Studio
- 10:45 - Break
- 11:00 - Hints for recording & editing
- 11:30 - Lunch (Dine-Around)
- 1:00 - Production time!
- 2:30 - Show & tell
- 3:00 - Wrap-up, evaluations, and adjourn.